SECTION 3: READING

Tarag (yoghurt) is the traditional national beverage of Mongolians. It looks like milk but tastes sour. It is made of milk. We can use cow, goat and sheep's milk. Milk is heated and covered with a cloth. It takes 1 or 2 hours to get ready. Fresh tarag tastes a bit sweet and but then it quickly gets sour. Tarag is good for health because it's rich in vitamins and minerals.

We can boil tarag and make aaruul (curd). Then we dry aaruul out. Aaruul is also rich in vitamins and minerals. Dried aaruul can be eaten any time of the year. It never loses its quality. It's good for our teeth.

Tarag and aaruul are Mongolian traditional national dairy products.
